FOREWORD

Dr. William E. Steward, President of Wenatchee Valley College, being dedicated to the progress of each individual in the institution, offers these thought-provoking comments to students:

PROGRESS is a human distinctive. Unlike animals which "have been" and unlike God who "is," man "seeks to become." Man is not granted the privilege of ever reaching the state of "having arrived." To him what is "good" is seldom good enough.

We, the students, faculty and community, are caught up in the momentum of this rapidly accelerating progress, manifestations of which are ubiquitous. Progress has brought us extended life-span, bountiful food, convenient and rapid travel, expanded educational opportunities, and more accurate knowledge of the cultures of the world, both past and present. Our future, from the vantage-point of these accomplishments, appears bright beyond expectations.

Yet all of us are apprehensive as we contemplate the fulfillment of these marks of progress. Upon more thorough examination, we come to the realization that our unrest is due to the seeming inability to accomplish a universal recognition of the dignity of man, and with it the right to determine his individual fulfillment.

As we engage ourselves in the process of learning let us be clear in identification of the obstacles to progress. All learning, all development - in short, all progress - is only a means. True progress for an individual, and thus for mankind, is manifest in the ability to use knowledge for the enhancement of the dignity of man.

May the PROGRESS each of you experiences be to this exalted end.

MID-MANAGEMENT TRAINING

Candace Wax and Dale Gormley were first place winners in the Manufacturer's Sales Contest sponsored by Wenatchee's Mid-Management Training Program.

The bond issue campaign kick-off, headed by Jay Foster, featured a barbecue on November 19, 1966, held on Wells House campus.

Success in the bond issue election will enable Wenatchee Valley College to provide new programs in electronics, refrigeration and photography, and to expand the forestry and the art departments.

These added offerings in curricula are necessary if Wenatchee Valley College is to grow and fulfill its role in the community.

As science instructor Gerald Merrill participates in the World University Service fund drive activities at Wenatchee Valley College, he envisions progress in education and culture for students in other parts of the world.

AREAS OF STUDY

The Mid-Management program is a unique form of business training in which students pursue college work in a number of specific courses related to all phases of business and industry, and are employed in positions which lead to their career objectives.

The program is actually a joint effort by Wenatchee Valley College and Wenatchee business people to provide an education in marketing and distribution for our young men and women.

Ron James, Jack Baker, Jim Koch and Candace Wax serve as organization officers. Henry Bauer (not pictured) is W.V.C. Mid-Management supervisor.

Practical Nursing

An expanded program in practical nursing is made possible by the Manpower Development Training Act. The class which began work in April 1965 completed the course in March 1966, and the class which began in September 1965 will finish in September 1966.

X-ray Technology

Wenatchee Valley College, Wenatchee Valley Clinic and Central Washington Deaconess Hospital offer a three-year course in x-ray technology. W.V.C. offers academic and technical courses for a year, and the clinic and hospital, on a two-year internship, give the actual technical practice required for the student to become, upon satisfactory completion, a registered technician of the American Society of x-ray Technicians.

REMINISCENCE

It seems but yesterday that Wenatchee Valley College was a small, struggling college trying to find its place among the educational institutions of the state. In 1939 eighty-two students and seven teachers gathered in the rear wing of the high school to start a new junior college. Two years later most of the men students went off to the war. Had it not been for a flight training program offered by the college, it probably would have closed its doors. But the small college was destined to grow and fulfill the dreams of those who envisioned it.

During my time as Superintendent of Schools I have seen the college move to a new 50 acre campus, construct new modern buildings, and develop facilities to accommodate a student body of nearly 1,500 students. Its curriculum offerings have been extended to serve the varied interests of those who come in increasing numbers to the campus. Its excellent faculty of sixty-six teachers has been assembled to teach at the college. Through colloquia, music concerts, art exhibits, and guest speakers the college has generated a new cultural life for the community.

Yes, Wenatchee Valley College has proudly taken its place among the rapidly growing number of community colleges in our state. It has been a great satisfaction to me to see this happen. I am pleased that I could have a small part in the development of this college. May I extend my congratulations to the President, Dr. William Steward, the faculty, students, school board members, and an interested community that has made all of this possible.
